

HOW YOUR LEGACY COULD SAVE LIVES

£500... could provide a financial grant to a pregnant university student, to support them in the pursuit of their academic and personal goals, through The Alma Mater Fund.

£750... could fund essential training for one person to speak out confidently and professionally in the media on pro-life issues, thereby responding to the increasing demands by the mainstream media for SPUC to take part in debates and interviews.

£5,000... could help fund a SPUC youth conference, forming and inspiring the next generation of pro-life campaigners.

£10,000... could cover the cost of printing life-saving materials for an entire campaign, ensuring dedicated pro-life volunteers can hold politicians to account.

£15,000... could help the SPUC Education and Research Trust run the Abortion Recovery Care and Helpline (ARCH) ensuring support is available for women and men struggling with an abortion experience—or considering abortion.

£20,000... could fund cutting-edge pro-life publications, commissioned by SPUC from top academics in their field. SPUC was proud to publish, "Abortion Matters", edited by Dr Anthony McCarthy, which aims to inform a whole new audience about the abortion debate – just one example of the type of influential publication SPUC is able to produce.

£25,000... would pay for an additional regional development officer committed to building up grassroots support through SPUC's national branch network.

£50,000... could defend life by helping to fund a major legal challenge in the courts.

THE LEGACY FOR LIFE CLUB

SPUC has created the Legacy for Life club because we believe that leaving a legacy deserves recognition in one's lifetime. This club is our way of saying thank you to you, and of honouring you for making a pledge to remember unborn babies in your will. To request a will guide and pledge form please use the coupon or contact details overleaf.

What does membership of the Legacy for Life club mean?

Supporters of SPUC who indicate their intention to leave a legacy by completing the pledge form (in the will guide) will receive the following:

Regular updates on SPUC's work and campaign activities – club members will receive special mailings that will keep you engaged and informed, aware at every step of what SPUC is doing.

An annual report – every year we will send you SPUC's audited accounts and a full report on SPUC's campaigns during the preceding year. This will enable you to assess first-hand the effectiveness of campaigns and our efficiency as organisation.

A membership gift upon joining the club – we will send you a complimentary copy of SPUC's publication, Abortion Matters, by Dr Anthony McCarthy, Director of Research and Education at SPUC. This provides clear, convincing answers to fundamental questions relating to abortion. We will also send you a Tiny Feet pin badge.

SPUC staff and cross-party MPs present thousands of postcards, signed by SPUC supporters, to the Prime Minister, calling on him not to impose abortion on Northern Ireland, on 11 September 2019

SPUC EDUCATION AND RESEARCH TRUST

A LEGACY GIFT FOR HUMAN LIFE

Will you help us to create a society free from abortion?

Our work defending unborn babies depends on the generosity of individual supporters across the country who regularly donate to SPUC. Many of our supporters also choose to leave a legacy in their will, which helps to ensure that there will be a strong voice for unborn children long into the future.

The importance of making your will, or keeping it up-to-date

Whether you decide to make a special gift in your will to SPUC or not, it's very important to make a will. It's your chance to avoid misunderstandings, ensure that your family's needs are met, and remember causes that were important to you during your lifetime.

Free guide to writing or updating your will

Please complete and return the coupon in this leaflet and we will send you an easy-to-follow will guide which will give you more information about writing or amending your will and, if you wish, leaving a legacy to SPUC or the SPUC Education and Research Trust. Alternately, you can access a digital PDF copy of our will guide on our website, www.spuc.org.uk

You can leave a legacy to:

The Society for the Protection of Unborn Children (SPUC) or:
The SPUC Education and Research Trust

The choice is yours

- SPUC is a campaigning organisation, not a charity.
- The SPUC Education and Research Trust is a registered charity (charity number 1143342)

Both work in close association with each other to promote the defence of human life in the United Kingdom and across the world.

If the net value of your estate when you die is more than a certain amount (£325,000* at the time of writing), Inheritance Tax could be payable on gifts to organisations which are not charities.

In addition to the standard £325,000 tax threshold, an additional "main residence" tax relief came into effect with the Spring 2017 Budget. In 2020/21, an extra £175,000 in tax relief may apply should you leave your home to a direct descendant (i.e. family member such as child or grandchild) and if your estate is worth less than £2m. Also, married couples may be able to combine their individual tax thresholds and effectively double Inheritance Tax relief on their estate should one of the spouses die, to as much as £1,000,000 in 2020/21. Ask your solicitor for advice on this matter.

Society for the Protection of Unborn Children (SPUC)

Political campaigning: SPUC brings the pro-life voice to Parliament, both in Holyrood and Westminster. Parliamentary campaigning is central to SPUC's work to end abortion in our country. SPUC's dedicated political lobbyists engage with MP's and Peers. SPUC's researchers and strategy experts work tirelessly to advance the pro-life cause at the heart of politics.

Grassroots campaigning and lobbying: SPUC's success lies in the network of branches and activists who campaign at the local level for the rights of unborn babies and other vulnerable humans. SPUC is constantly developing and forming new branches of the Society to ensure that up and down the nation there are courageous people bearing witness to human life in their own neighbourhood.

Education: SPUC plays a major role in educating young people. Trained speakers take the pro-life message into schools and colleges.

Youth outreach: SPUC invests in young people by holding an annual Youth Conference. Top pro-life speakers inspire the next generation to speak out against abortion, euthanasia and other attacks on human life. Our youth outreach has more recently extended to supporting university pro-life societies, equipping them with the necessary tools and training to promote the pro-life ethic on campuses.

Media outreach: Getting the pro-life voice into the media is a priority for SPUC. We ensure that professionally trained spokespeople are ready to appear in the media at any time to speak up for the truth about abortion and euthanasia.

SPUC EDUCATION AND RESEARCH TRUST

The SPUC Education and Research Trust works to help victims of abortion and build a culture of life by funding a number of major projects, including those outlined below.

ARCH: ARCH was set up in 1987 in response to the many requests for help from women and men who were suffering from the serious emotional problems which can arise after an abortion. Since then ARCH has expanded and receives thousands of calls every year from people afflicted by abortion.

ARCH provides professional counselling and a confidential helpline every evening for anyone seeking a way forward in dealing with the devastation brought on by abortion.

Foetal models: A major ongoing project of the SPUC Education and Research Trust is the promotion of an anatomically accurate set of foetal models which demonstrate various states of human development in the womb.

These unborn baby models have opened the eyes and minds of thousands of people, young and old, to the humanity of the baby in the womb. They are widely used in schools, church settings and by pro-life groups around the world.

Research and publications: The SPUC Education and Research Trust supports academic work which promotes a pro-life ethic.

The Trust has produced a highly successful book, Abortion Matters, for the general public, which aims to inform and motivate ordinary people to take a stand against abortion; one of the greatest evils of our times.
